ALPHABETICAL DIGEST.

Alphabetical Digest—Persons.

INTRODUCTION.

ALTHOUGH the use of Surnames was established in the reign of Ed. I., still the variations which they exhibit are sufficiently numerous to occasion considerable ambiguity. In some families, such as the family of Fitzwalter of Daventry, it is hardly possible to decide whether the individuals who belonged to it, were distinguished by their patronymic or by their local designation. Either surname was equally good in law. Thus, at a later period, a defendant pleaded in abatement to a formedon:—"La chartre "prove le remainder à Adam le fitz Richard, et le brief voet que les tenementz "remainent à Adam de Urmeston, issint ne prove my la chartre le remainder "estre comprise en le brief. Juggement du brief." But the plea was overruled by the Court in the following manner:—"Coment qu'il soit nosme "en la chartre par altre surnosme qu'il n'est en le brief, s'il soit mesme "la person à qui le remainder fuist taille, assez est le brief bon. Per quei, "respondeas."—(Pasch. 8 Ed. III. 19. b.) Surnames originally derived from places, and ascribed to the family of the parties, were occasionally dropped for others derived from residence; or, in other words, the surname was merged in the local description. With respect to the "Bynames" of persons belonging to the inferior classes, they are subjected to very perplexing changes. The Clerks by whom the records were written, either translated them into Latin or French, or retained them in the vernacular dialect, at their pleasure, and without being guided by any fixed rule. Thus, the "Thomas de la Guttere" of one year appears as "Thomas atte Shete" in the next return. Personal descriptions, for they can scarcely be called surnames, derived from trades, offices, or occupations, were shifted and exchanged for local descriptions, with an equal disregard of any regular system.

To these sources of confusion must be added the obscurities arising from the fluctuating and unsettled orthography, and in very many instances from the difficulty of discovering the true reading of the record. Some letters, such as t and c, n and u, are written precisely in the same manner; f and ſ, h, l, and b, A and D, E and R, &c. are nearly alike; and the casual obliteration of a hair-stroke will destroy the distinguishing feature. The dot of the i is generally omitted; and in the combinations of the letters formed by parallel strokes, such as m, n, u, i, the eye is unable to develope the elements of which the groupe is composed.

In familiar and well-known names the true reading is obtained by the previous knowledge of the word; but by far the most numerous names belong to families long since extinct, or to persons of obscure and unknown lineage. Thus, a name, which may be either Hauvil or Hanvil, has also been read as Haunil, Hannil, and Hamul; Gouiz as Goniz; Haudlo as Handlo; and it is probable that the name of the baronial family of Novant ought to be read Nonant, though in the present work, the first orthography has been adopted, on the authority of Dugdale and his successors. Occasionally, the employment of a letter of equivalent sound affords a satisfactory solution. Thus, the name Gouiz, being sometimes, though rarely, spelled Gowiz, the true sound is ascertained.

In the following Digest, each individual of importance has been identified as far as it was practicable to ascertain such identity, either from the context, or from such records as were rendered accessible to the Editor. The compilation is, however, to be considered merely as an aid calculated to spare the time and trouble of the Reader, but not as an authority by which he is to be guided. Therefore in every case whatever, the Reader will be pleased to exercise his own judgment, and to decide for himself in determining whether the entries have been properly united, divided, or otherwise appropriated. For this purpose also, an Index has been added, in which all the names are inserted, in strict alphabetical order, according to the orthography of the original records, and with such permutations as are required, when the composition of the name, or its additions, may occasion doubts respecting the leading head or title under which it ought to be classed; the Digest, unless in some few instances, containing only one leading head or title for each individual, and cross references having been omitted in order to avoid increasing its bulk. Thus, in the Digest, all the entries relating to Richard fitz Alan, Earl of Arundel, are classed under the leading head or title of "Fitz Alan, Richard, Earl of Arundel," whilst the Index contains references to, Alani, Ricardus filius — Ricardus filius Alani — Filius Alani, Ricardus — Filius Alani, Ricardus, Com' Arundel — Fiz Aleyn, Richard, Conte de Arundel — Arundel, Ricardus filius Alani, Com' — Arundel, Ricardus Com', &c.; and in this manner the Reader who may not think it expedient to rely upon the arrangement of the Digest, can pursue his searches according to the original text.

In consequence of the recurrence of the same Christian name in the same family, the task of identifying the parties has become both laborious and unsatisfactory; the additions of "senior" and "junior," as well as the local descriptions, are so often omitted as to render it impossible to distinguish between the various branches, and it is to be feared that different individuals bearing the same name have been occasionally entered under one leading head or title. The List or Roll of the "Names and Arms of the Bannerets of England," appended to these observations, may be of some use in tracing the families of the persons whom it includes, most of whom are also named in the Digest. This document, which appears to have been compiled in the early part of the reign of Edward II., affords a curious illustration of antient heraldry.

In consulting the Digest the Reader will observe that it has often been necessary to intermix the letters i and y, c and k; and that in the classification of the names, the strict alphabetical order has been occasionally interrupted, in order to bring together those denominations which are connected by root, analogy, or meaning, though separated by orthography.

* Johannes de Acton died seised of various lordships, lands, and tenements, in the several Counties of Gloucester, Hereford, Somerset, Southampton, and Devon (Esc. 6 Ed. II. No. 55.), leaving Johannes de Acton his son and heir, then of the age of twenty-three years and upwards. It does not appear that any other person of this name and being of full age, held lands in the before-mentioned counties in the reign of Ed. I.; and therefore, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, the entries have been classed as relating to one individual.

* By the inquisition taken upon the death of Egidius de Argenteyn, (not Reginald the elder, as stated by Dugdale, Bar. Vol. I. n. 615.), pursuant to writ tested 20 Dec. 11 Ed. I. (Rot. Fin. 11 Ed. I. m. 25.), it was found that Reginaldus de Argenton was his son and next heir. (Esc. 11 Ed. I. No. 19.). The latter did homage for the manors of "Magna Wimundele et Parva Wimundele" on the day of the date of the writ of Diem Clausit Extremum, and obtained conditional livery of the same — tenenda ad voluntatem Regis, ita quod terras illas excolere et seminare et exitus inde pervenientes percipere possit et Regi inde respondere. (Rot. Fin. 11 Ed. I. m. 25.)

† Notwithstanding the variations of the spelling of this name, it evidently relates to one person.

* Summons repeated in the entry on the Roll.

† Esc. 29 Ed. I. No. 155. Quia Andreas de Astle qui de hærede Rogeri de Moubray defuncti qui de R. tenuit in capite, infra ætatem et in custodia R. existente, tenuit per servicium militare, diem clausit extremum, mandatum est Waltero de Glouc' Esc. ultra Trentam quod omnes terras &c. T. R. apud Karliolum xv. die Octobr'. (Rot. Fin. 28 Ed. I. m. 3.)

Inquisicio facta apud Brouton in com' Leyc' xv. k' Feb' a. r. R. Edw. xxix$^{o}$ de terris quas Andr' de Astleye tenuit &c. — Jur' dic' quod idem Andr' tenuit de hærede Rogeri de Moubray tria feoda militum in Picwell per medium et per homagium. Et faciendo scutagium pro tribus feodis quando currit. . .

Dicunt etiam quod idem Andr' tenuit manerium de Brouton cum membris et cum advocatione ecclesiæ de Com' Leyc' in capite per servicium unius feodi et quartæ partis unius feodi milit' faciendo sectam ad cur' Leyc' de tribus septim' in tribus septimanis. . .

Dicunt etiam quod Andr' de Astleye tenuit manerium de Wyleweby cum pertin' de Rad'o Basset de Sabecote in capite per servicium unius dim' feodi militis. . .

Dicunt etiam quod Nich's de Astleye est propinquior hæres ejus et fuit ad Pasch' prox' præteritum ætatis viginti trium annorum et amplius.

Warr'. Jur' dicunt quod prædictus Andr' tenuit xx. acr' bosci in Beneteley de hærede Rogeri de Moubray in capite per servic' vigesimæ partis feodi unius militis faciendo homag' et scutag' cum accederit et duos adventus ad cur' ejusdem Rogeri per annum. . .

Dicunt etiam quod quidam Nich's de Astle fuit filius predicti Andr' et hæres ejus propinquior et fuit de ætate viginti quatuor annorum ad Pasch' a. r. R. xxviii$^{o}$. . .

Dicunt etiam quod prædictus Andr' tenuit manerium de Astle in com' Warr' de Com' Warr' per servic' unius feodi militis. . .

Dicunt etiam quod prædictus Andr' tenuit manerium de Wetyndon die quo obiit in Com' prædicto de Com' Warr' per servic' unius feodi milit' et dimid'.

The greater part of the last membrane of the inquisitions is torn off, but enough remains to shew that it related to the manor of Creyk, which was held of the heir of Rogerus de Moubray by the service of one third part of a knight's fee. The charter by which the lands of Thomas de Estleyg were granted to Warinus de Bassingburn (Cart. 49 H. III. m. 3.) does not, as might be inferred from the reference in Dugdale (Bar. Vol. I. p. 668.), contain any description, the grant being made in general terms. The manors of "Crek," "Willeby," "Hetham or Hetam," and "Lilleburn," were restored to Andr' de Estleyg by Warinus de Bassingburn (Cart. 50 H. III. n. 11.); but the manner in which he acquired the other lands of which he died seized, does not appear.

* Nicholaus de Estleye, the son and heir of Andreas de Estleye, mentioned in the preceding inquisitions, did his fealty and obtained livery of his lands, 26 Jan. 29 Ed. I. (Rot. Fin. 29 Ed. I. m. 16.) With respect to the writs of summons directed to Andreas de Estleye, after the 28th Ed. I., it must either be considered that they were issued and enrolled by mistake, or that there was another individual bearing the same name; but there is no evidence in support of the latter conjecture. Dugdale, who states that Andrew "departed this life, 29 Ed. I." does not notice the difficulty. The Pedigrees given by Shaw (History of Staffordshire, Vol. 2. p. 237.) and Burton (History of Leicestershire, p. 55.) and the Manuscript Pedigree in the British Museum (Bib. Harl. 6160.) agree in substance with Dugdale.

† The following surnames, like all others which are derived from localities, are subject to many perplexing variations; many of the persons thus designated are probably also found under other denominations (v. Introduction.)

* Rex archiepiscopis &c. salutem. Sciatis nos concessisse &c. dilecto et fideli nostro Hugoni le Blunt quod ipse et heredes sui imperpetuum habeant liberam warennam in omnibus dominicis terris suis de Gingesjoeberd' et Gyngelaundri in Com' Essex', Pontherigge in Com' Hertford, Pencritz in Com' Stafford', Kyngeston in Com' Oxon' et Dudecote in Com' Berk'. Dum tamen terræ illæ non sint infra metas foreste nostræ. Ita quod nullus intret terras illas ad fugandum in eis vel ad aliquid capiendum quod ad warennam pertineat sine licentiâ et voluntate ipsius Hugonis vel hæredum suorum &c. Datum per manum nostram apud Kenynton' xxiiii. die Maii. (Rot. Cart. 33 Ed. I. m. 5.)

Upon the authority of this Charter it may be assumed that the entries in the text relate to one individual, no other Hugo le Blount or Blunt appearing in any coeval records. The manors of Gingejoyberd' and Gingelaundre belonged to Andreas le Blund, (Esc. 48 H. III. No. 33.), the heir is not named in the inquisition, but this information is supplied from another source. "Hugo le Blunt," in answer to a Quo warranto brought against him, 21 Ed. I., concerning a fair held in his manor of "Pencryz," pleaded the charter which had been granted to Andreas his father. (Plac. de Quo warranto, p. 714.) A "Hugo le Blount chivaler," perhaps the son of the first-named Hugh, died 20 Sep. 1361, he was seised of the manors of "Gingejoyberdlaund," and "Lednerothymgg" (Essex), Huthe (Herts), and Pencrich (Staff'). (Esc. 35 Ed. III. p. 1. No. 13.)

† Probably the son and heir of John le Blund, who married one of the sisters and coheiresses of Ric' de Wrotham. (Cl. 35 H. III. m. 15. d. and Esc. 48 H. III. No. 5.)

* "This Earl in 35 Ed. I., being with the King in his Scottish wars, departed thence without leave; for which offence, at the instance of Queen Margaret, he obtained his pardon." (Dugdale, Baronage, vol. i. p. 183.) In the original record, however, the title of Earl is not added as usual; and it is therefore possible that the entry may refer to some junior member of the family.

† This Willielmus de Boyville died 33 Ed. I. By inquisition taken at Carlisle, pursuant to a writ of Diem clausit extremum, tested at "Wyttele," 12 Jan. 33 Ed. I., it was found that Johannes his son, then of the age of twenty-two years, was his next heir. (Esc. 33 Ed. I. No. 15.)

* By an extent taken in pursuance of a writ of Diem clausit extremum, tested at Westminster, 3 July, 9 Ed. I. (Esc. 9 Ed. I. No. 10.) it was found that "Radulphus le Botiler," in right of his wife Matilda, died seised of the following demesnes in the County of Salop — Wemme (Manor), Hynestock (Hamlet), and Tyrley (Manor), held in Capite, by the service of three Knights Fees, to be performed for forty days in Wales. The extent does not state the name of his heir. According to Dugdale (Bar. i. p. 595.), Willielmus le Botiller, son of Rad's le Botiller, did homage, and obtained livery of the Manors of Wemme and Lopynton, and he quotes Rot. Fin. 6 Ed. I. m. 21., but no such entry is found on the Roll, and Matilda de Pantolf was in possession of Wemme, 10 Ed. I.

† The Writ of Diem clausit extremum upon the death of "Radulphus le Botiller, senior," is tested at Carlisle, 5 June, 35 Ed. I. (Rot. Fin. 35 Ed. I. m. 2.) No inquisition extant.

* By inquisitions taken 21 June, 4 Ed. II., it was found that "Johannes le Bretoun" died seised of certain demesnes in Boxsted, in the County of Esser, and that Matilda, the daughter of "Johannes le Bretoun" junior, wife of Ricardus de la Rivere, was his next heir. (Esc. 4 Ed. II. No. 32.) Johannes le Bretoun the elder appears to have been the son of Willielmus le Bretun, who died 45 H. III. (Esc. 45 H. III. No. 18.) Johannes le Breton of Esser has been identified with Johannes le Breton of Norfolk, (v. Morant, History of Essex, ii. p. 241. and Bloomfield, History of Norfolk, iii. p. 341.), but it is doubtful whether all the entries here classed together, relate to one individual.

† By inquisitions taken 1 May, 34 Ed. I., it was found that "Johannes fil' Johannis le Bretoun" held (inter alia) certain tenements in "Blatherwyk" and "Leyton," in the County of Northampton, of Richard Basset, by the service of the eighth part of a Knight's fee, and that Johannes, his son and heir, was of the age of ten years. (Esc. 34 Ed. I. No. 29.) The last-mentioned Johannes le Bretoun, the infant, died 4 Ed. II., before his grandfather, leaving Matilda, wife of Ricardus de la Rivere, his sister, and heiress at law, as mentioned in the preceding note.

* There is some uncertainty with respect to the employment of the title of Earl of Richmond, and the authorities do not always agree amongst themselves. The entries have been arranged in conformity to the Lords Report (Third Report of the Lords Committees on the Dignity of the Peerage, 95—105), which contains a very elaborate investigation of the nature and descent of this Earldom, and where the subject is fully discussed. John II. succeeded John I. his father, in Oct. 1286. In 1297 he was created Duke of Britanny and Peer of France by Philip le Bel, for until this creation the Sovereign of Britanny, according to the usage of the Chancery of France, had only the title of Count. He died in Nov. 1305. (Art de verifier les Dates, vol. ii. p. 903., and Lobineau, Hist. de Bretaigne, vol. i. p. 286.)

† These entries perhaps belong to Johannes de Britannia Earl of Richmond, the father. ‡ Perhaps "Johannes le Breton." § Perhaps "Thomas de Richemund."

† This Ricardus de Brus died 15 Ed. I.; the writ of Diem clausit extremum is tested at Westminster, 26 Jan. (Rot. Fin. 15 Ed. I. m. 16.)

‡ Neither the writ of Diem clausit extremum, nor the inquisitions taken upon the death of Robertus de Brus of Annandale, are extant; but Robertus de Brus, his son and heir, did homage, 4 July, 23 Ed. I. (Rot. Fin. 23 Ed. I. m. 12.) The entries are classed as they are found in the original Records. Dugdale's Pedigree (Baronage, vol. i. p. 450.) has been the subject of severe animadversion (Remarks on the Defects in Dugdale's Baronage, Lond. 1738, p. 181.), but the obscurities attending the descent are not entirely removed by the critic.

* The repetition of the Writs of summons, 10 & 26 Ed. I., may induce a suspicion that the entries relate to more than one individual; yet only one "Galfridus de Camvile" is noticed by Dugdale (Baronage, vol. i. p. 628.) The inquisitions taken upon the death of Galfridus de Campville of Clifton Canvile (Staff.) (Esc. 2 Ed. I. 75.) do not comprehend the Lordship of "Landestephan."
